The San Diego Gulls are Flying Again!

Did you know that minor hockey in San Diego dates back to the 1930's? And for close to forty years the San Diego Gulls minor hockey team called America's finest city its home playing at the San Diego Sport Arena until 2005 when the team disbanded.

Now a new chapter in the San Diego minor hockey tradition is about to take flight this September when the San Diego Jr. A Gulls return to action in the Western States Hockey League (WSHL).

The Gulls will be flying in a new nest this season. The Iceoplex in Escondido will be the Gulls new home providing a much more intimate atmosphere at incredibly affordable prices. Gulls hockey will provide family value while treating families to tremendous action packed hockey.

So come soar with the Gulls for their 2008-2009 inaugural season and help put San Diego hockey back on the map!
